

Dear Praying Friends,

Greetings in His matchless Name!

Just a quick note...Here I am in sunny Florida with my daughter & son-in-law, their kids (and my grandkids and great grandkids). The kids are telling me I am welcome to stay as long as I like, but...Honestly I am longing to get back home, though I love the kids and fellowship. No place like home, I guess.

If you ever wanted to come to Pensacola, you can't beat the airline prices with Frontier, starting at $30! (You can't drive to MD. from PA for that price!) And these are direct flights. This is a great weather time to be here also...before it gets unbearably hot. (So far no fishing yet...my grandson's boat is in the shop.)

All is great, except I miss Shirley sooooo much 😭😭😭! She would absolutely have loved to be here with me...but she wouldn't trade places now. I thought being away from home would lessen the loneliness, but it doesn't.

Lord willing I will be preaching down here this Lord's Day at the Smyrna Baptist Church. I attended services there on Sunday. Seems like a great local church with a good pastor. Former members of Faith in Fairless Hills are members here. Great to see them. It looks like there are churches on every block down here. In fact, it is Wed. night and I need to get ready to go to Prayer Meeting. The pastor is in a Revelation series and I am anxious to hear him. (He has a copy of my "inspired notes" on Rev. so it should be good 😊!)

I have been to Europe (in the Army) and several places on vacation but I am having a terrible time with directions down here. Senility, I guess. I will follow my daughter and husband to church tonight or I will end up in Alabama.

Sincerely in the Savior,

Pastor Fedena
